William Brownlie and Margaret Forrest of Bonkle, Lanarkshire, Scotland

There were Brownlies in Bonkle, prior to 1700. This chart starts at 1732.

William Brownlie a Bonkle Smithy[1] born 1732[2] at Whitestripe (Whytestripes), Bonkle, Lanarkshire, Scotland and died 23 August 1824[3] at Bonkle, Lanarkshire, Scotland. William was married in 1760 at Cambusnethan[4] to Margaret Forrest born 1738 died 18 June 1810[5] Bonkle, Lanarkshire, Scotland. They are both interred in Cambusnethan Churchyard[6].

They had issue:

1. Janet (?) Brownlie born 13 May 1761[7] and baptised on 17 May 1761 at Whytestripes their first child[8].
2. Alexander Brownlie born 14[9] or 17 December 1762[10] at Whitestripe[11] Bonkle, died 20 May 1843[12] at Bonkle. He was married on 11[13], 17 or 29[14] April 1795[15] to Margaret Russell born 1771 died 1849[16] aged 72 years or 1843[17] Bonkle. Alexander was a blacksmith and contractor in Bonkle.

They had issue:

1. William Brownlie, born at Bonkle on 6 October 1796 baptised 30 October 1796 their first child[18]. William, shown as a master builder[19] and mason[20], on Margaret birth record, was a large-scale builder and contractor in Bonkle, died 10 February[21] 1851[22]. William built Whitebank House in Bonkle for his new bride. He married Agnes Thomson[23] (Thomson Hill[24]) of Murdiston (Murdestoun) Farm in Bonkle born 1809 and who died on 17 October 1834[25] at White Bank, Bonkle. (Editor's note: may have died giving birth to daughter Margaret). William had worked on some large contracts such as the building of the Limerick Docks and the deepening of the River Shannon in Ireland for the British Government in c1846 at a cost of £750,000. He was said to be a man of very progressive ideas, much in advance of his time. They are both interred in the Brownlie burial ground at Cambusnethan Churchyard.

They had Issue:

1. Agnes Thomson Brownlie, born 19 September 1832 and baptised 14 October 1832 in Bonkle their first child[26]. Agnes died of cerebral haemorrhage and coma on 14 October 1911[27]·[28] at White Bank, Bonkle[29]. Married on 19 August 1858 at Bonkle[30] to Thomas Brownlee merchant[31], draper[32] and clothier[33] in Wishaw born 1827 in Bothwell[34], died at Whitebank from cardiac failure[35] on 10 June 1914[36] (aged 87 years[37]) son of Robert Brownlee, gardener[38] or land steward[39] and Elizabeth Russell[40]. Thomas along with 11 other men (together known as the 12 apostles) founded the [Pather Iron and Steel Company\[41\]](#) in Wishaw and had many employees. Thomas was very successful in his ventures and retired at the age of 53. He died at the age of 87. Thomas was a very religious man and may have been responsible for a gift of £600 to Thornlie Church in Wishaw to make repairs to the manse[42] (see also notes below). He was exceedingly fond of his home and family and in his spare time took an immense interest in his garden and flowers. Both he and Agnes are interred in the Brownlie burial ground at Cambusnethan Churchyard.

They had Issue:

1. Agnes Thomson Brownlee, born 3 August 1859 at George Street, Wishaw[43], died of cardiac failure on 20 June 1929[44] at Marshlands, Dean Road, Bo'ness, West Lothian aged 69 years[45]. Agnes was married in 1884 to William Gladstone, schoolmaster[46] and later rector of Bo'ness Academy born c1857 and died 1 September 1917 at Marchlands, Bo'ness. They are interred at Bo'ness Cemetery at the side of the cemetery wall adjoining Bo'ness town. They had no children from their marriage.
2. Elizabeth Russell[47] Brownlee born 25 August 1861 at 3 Kirk Road, Wishaw, and resided at Whitebank House until her death there on Tuesday 21 March 1939[48] aged 77 years[49]. Her funeral was at Cambusnethan Cemetery on Friday 24 March 1939 at 2.30pm. Elizabeth left heritable property at Bonkle to The Fresh-Air Fortnight and Cripple Children's League. She also left £2,000 to Wishaw United Free Church; £1,000 to the United Free Church of Scotland and £500 each to the Salvation Army; Glasgow United Evangelistic Association and the National Bible Society of Scotland. Bequests of £250 each were also made to Glasgow Royal Infirmary; Glasgow Victoria Infirmary; Royal Hospital for Sick Children; Evangelical Union of South America; Southern Morocco Mission; Association for Relief of Incurables for Glasgow and West of Scotland (Broomhill Home); and Zambesi Industrial Mission. Sums of £200 each were left to the Royal Glasgow Asylum for the Blind and the Mission to the Outdoor Blind for Glasgow and West of Scotland[50].

4. Margaret Russell Brownlee was born 4 July 1865 at 3 Kirk Road, Wishaw[53], died of infantile diarrhoea and vomiting on 28 July 1865[54]·[55] at 5 (sic) Kirk Road Wishaw[56].

5. Jane Brownlee born 11 May 1867 at 3 Kirk Road, Wishaw[57] and died from convulsions (24 hours) on 27 May 1867 at 3 Kirk Road, Wishaw[58].

6. Williamina Brownlee born 12 July 1868 at 3 Kirk Road, Wishaw[59] and died from continued fever (17 days), congestion of brain (6 days) on 6 January 1873[60] at Bonkle Cottage aged 4 years[61].

7. Dr. Alexander John[62] Brownlee, M.B., C.M., residing in New Cumnock, (in 1897), born 29 October 1871 at Bonkle Cottage, Cambusnethan[63]. Alexander entered the medical profession at an early age and contracted (Typhoid) fever from a patient shortly after commencing a practice of his own. He died of enteric[64] fever (18 days), peritonitis (1 day) on 10 August 1899[65] at Hummock in Ayrshire while on holiday. He was 27 years, had never married and is buried in the Brownlie burial ground in Cambusnethan Churchyard.

William Brownlie and Agnes Thomson also had:

2. Margaret (May) Brownlie, born 25 August 1834 and baptised 28 September 1834 at Bonkle their second child[66]. Margaret died 22 December 1850[67] at Whitebank at the age of 16 years. She is buried in the Brownlie burial ground in Cambusnethan Churchyard.

Alexander Brownlie and Margaret Russell also had:

2. John Brownlie, born 17 February 1799[68] baptised 10 March 1799 at Bonkle their second child[69]. John was a blacksmith in Carluke, died 15 December 1873[70] at Brownlie Cottage, Carluke. Married on 10 August 1827 (note that she was married at the age of 16) to Jean (Jane[71]) Weddell, born 11 April 1811, died 9 February 1860[72]. They are both interred in the Brownlie burial ground in Carluke Old Cemetery[73]. The Brownlie burial ground in Carluke Old Cemetery is a piece of ground only 10 yards or more from the entrance gate of the churchyard and it was on this plot that John Brownlie's anvil stood when he was a blacksmith. He is literally buried (in his work!) where he worked.

They had Issue:

1. Alexander Brownlie born 3 July 1828 in Carluke. Alexander was married by Rev James Watt, minister of the Parish of Shotts in 1860 at Bracco Farm near Airdrie to Marion King born 1832 at Merrytoun in Hamilton. Marion[74] was the daughter of John King[75] a farmer in Merrytoun, Hamilton. It is said that Marion was held in the arms of Napoleon II when he and Alexander Duke of Hamilton visited Merrytoun Farm in c1832. Alexander was the founder of the timber firm of A & R Brownlie of Carluke and Earlston along with his brother Robert Brownlie. This business had grown out of their Uncle James Weddell's timber business founded in 1848. Robert and Alexander commenced business in Comrie, Perthshire where large Larch trees were purchased for sixpence each. From there they moved to Berwickshire, where they purchased their first lot of timber from James Curie a writer in Melrose on the Gattonside Braes. While working this timber, called Pit Wood, Alexander resided in a house on the side of the road that runs through Gattonside Village. In (c1856)[76] 1859[77] they went to Haugh-head in Earlston where they put up the first sawmill in a field at the east end of the town behind a piece of land which was then part of Earlston common. The chimney was all that remained in 1936. When Alexander and Marion married they took out a lease of house and land at Haugh-head[78] in Earlston. The land was a large orchard that was termed Kings Mill. This was where people, through an old law, would bring their oats to make meal. They then went on to acquire a large plot of land, later adding Purves Haugh Farm, Fans or Pans Lounond Farm, Park Farm, Bogside, Sandlingate and then two other farms in Lanarkshire. In the late 1800s they purchased the property from the Earl of Haddington of Mellerstain Estate[79]. The property is still in the hands of the family as at 2006[80]. Marion died 5 February 1871 at Haugh-head Earlston in Berwickshire and Alexander also died at Haugh-head on 1 June 1902[81]. Both Alexander and Marion are interred at the Carluke Old Cemetery[82].

They had Issue:

1. John Brownlie born 8 April 1861 author of Record of the Brownlies of Bonkle 1700-1936. John was married on 24 October 1894 to Annie MacMaster, third daughter of James MacMaster JP Canochtrie Kirkmaiden Wigtownshire. They set up house at Park Farm in Earlston, on one of the farms owned to A and R Brownlie and then purchased their own farm at Smail Holm Mains in Kelso. John learned the business of farming on A and R Brownlie's farms and eventually managed Purves Haugh at Haugh-head and Park at Earlston. After some time he then went to work on his own farm and did so for some 15 years. In 1912 John borrowed £5,000 from a friend and went to Grange Farm at Moore Abbey[83] in Mainistir eimhin or Monasterevan[84] in Ireland. In about 1927 he took over Barrow House and then in 1928 purchased a house at 26 Scotland Street, Edinburgh.

They had Issue:

1. Annie (Nan) MacMaster Brownlie, born 29 April 1897 at Park Farm, Earlstone. Reverend William Mair became moderator of the Church of Scotland in 1897. Dr. John Young graduated from Glasgow University and practiced in Denholm near Hawick, then on to Scarborough and then to Earlstone where he was the doctor for a few months short of 50 years. He was greatly loved in the community. His father was the United Presbyterian Church minister in Roxburghshire. "Although the old town of Gingham was the centre of his activities, his sphere of labour embraced a much wider and more scattered district, and included part of the wild and desolate Lammermoors." [85] Dr John Young died while on holidays after only a few days illness just before he was due to receive public recognition for 50 years service. The funeral took place at Earlstone on Saturday 22 September 1934 and he is interred in Earlstone Churchyard, Berwickshire.

2. John Brownlie born 29 May 1885 at Sandlingate Farm Carluke. John was married on 21 December 1910 to Agnes Mary Bertram born 4 February 1887 at Geraldine South Canterbury in New Zealand. John was educated in Carluke and entered the law offices of Messrs. Somerville and Russell, writers at 156 St Vincent Street Glasgow. His cousin John Somerville was one of the partners. John worked with the law office gaining business knowledge until 1908 when he went to New Zealand. On arriving he met up with friends and after a few days obtained work at 25/- per week and board on a farm on the banks of Clutha River operating a six-horse, three-furrow plough. Now this was very new to him and to top it off he had something like 4 weeks consistent, non-ceasing rain. He was getting pretty well fed up with the rain when his boss came to him one morning and said "Brownlie, you are not plowing enough for me at the rate of 3 acres a day." John's reply came quick "here are the reins for you – carry on yourself." He packed his kit and headed for Christ's Church (Christchurch). On the train journey he got talking to a farmer who asked "are you any relation to James Brownlie of the Canterbury Woolen Mills in Timaru?" John was not aware that his cousin James was in New Zealand, he thought he was in Vancouver. He changed plans and went to Timaru to meet his cousin James. Here he obtained work on a third grade sheep property of some 3,200 acres belonging to Mr. Bertram. All was well until 9 months later he asked for the hand of Mr. Bertram's daughter Agnes Mary Bertram. His impulsive enquiry was not appreciated and he was shown the door to newer pastures. A few days later he was successful in an appointment with the New Zealand and Australian Land Company as third man on a holding of some 50,000 acres carrying an enormous number of sheep and several herds of purebred cattle. He was once again gaining valuable experience. After about two years he received news of Mr. Bertram's death following an accident involving the felling of a tree. He was invited back to the Bertram property to look after the holding until the heir to the property, Bertram's son finished agricultural college. Soon after arriving he married Agnes Mary Bertram. All's well that ends well! Their marriage took place on 21 September 1910 and they resided at Brunswick Farm, Wanganui New Zealand. John died in 1948.

NOTES:

1. The following was extracted from a history of Thornlie Church, Wishaw

"By the year 1898, the work and activities of the congregation and organization had increased so rapidly, that it was considered necessary to build another hall. Under the direction of Architect, Mr. James Cowie of Wishaw, the work was completed by the end of 1900, at a cost of £1,216.8.0. A bazaar was held in the town hall to clear the debt, and the money raised not only cleared it but also left a substantial balance of £559.10.11. Soon it was agreed that the, 75 year-old, manse was in such a poor condition that it should be replaced. To start a fund for this a "friend" of the church donated £600.0.0. This "friend" was later found to be Mr. Thomas Brownlie of Bonkle. The new manse was completed in 1903 at a cost of £1,555.19.1."

6. Email from Karl Williams 2 December 2005. Thanks to Karl for sasine abridgements 1897-1903.

7. Grizel Brounlee married Robert Rufsel, mason in Bonkle and had a son, John Rufsel born 20 October 1834 and baptised 21 December 1834[152]. This Grizel Brounlee could have been either Grizel (Gracie) Brownlie, born 29 April 1806 baptised 20 May 1806 at Bonkle, daughter of Alexander Brownlie and Margaret Russell or Grizel Brownlie, born 8 February 1805 and baptised 17 February 1805 at Bridgend, daughter of James Brownlie and Grizel Russell. (My assumption would be the latter, being named after her mother - Editor).

8. James Lockie V S died 24 July 1897 aged 77 years. Stone very worn and flaked. On reverse side - James Brownlee died 2 February 1861 ages 82 years. His wife Grizel Russell died 1858. Their daughter (?) 1812[153]. James Lockie is a possible relative. The daughter who died 1812 has not been recorded on Chart 10002.

9. Erected by Thomas Smith in memory of his father John who died at Crindledyke 2 May 1841 (Ian to type up the rest of this MI).

10. Jane Brownlie died 28 May 1867. See also James Brownlie, son of Agnes Thomson Brownlie and Thomas Brownlee who died 29 May 1867 according to John Brownlie, author of Record of the Brownlies of Bonkle.

11. Monasterevin or Manistir Eimhin means the Monastery of Evin - Now part of the Republic of Ireland, Monasterevan was previously part of the Irish Free State, part of the British Commonwealth! Indeed between 1800 and 1921 it was part of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, part of the greater British Empire. Before the Act of Union in 1800 the state was the Kingdom of Ireland ruled by his majesty's government in Dublin. Before that Monasterevin existed in a gray area between the English Pale, the Hiberno-Norman Lords of Kildare and the native Irish of Leix. In its earliest history Monasterevin was its own independent nation, the Tuath of Eimhin, lying in the province of Leinster. A province is one of the major geographical divisions of Ireland. The four provinces are based on the ancient division of Ireland into fifths or "Cuiga". Leinster is also a Duchy under the Irish Peerage and the Fitzgerald's are styled Dukes of Leinster. Set in the County of Kildare, which was "shired" by King John Lackland of England in 1210, it created an Anglo-Norman territory that was to be administered for the crown by the Earls of Kildare. The modern county was formed by the 1898 Local Government Act with parts of Ballybrakan and Harristown once part of the King's County (modern Co. Offaly). It also lies in the old barony of West Offaly. Baronies were created in Hiberno-Norman times as an administrative unit. They remained important until 1898. The Civil Parish is the pre-Reformation Catholic parish that became the smallest division in the Established Church. It was used up until the 1890's as a minor unit of civil administration. The Town-land in a Medieval and an older territorial division was based on the number of plough lands. In later times they formed the basis for rental assessments. Moore Abbey was originally called The House of Monasterevan[154].

12. Email received from Alexander John Brownlie to Ian Brownlee on 30 January 2006.

Ian I note you are looking for details of Haughhead, Earlston. My great grandfather came to Haughhead about 1856, having come through from Bonkle / Newmains / Carluke area. The property has been in the occupation/ownership of the family ever since. Bought from the Earl of Haddington of Mellerstain Estate at some time in the late 1800s. It is currently owned by my former wife, Joanna and I firmly believe it will be passed to our son, Alexander Brownlie in due course. I lived there myself from 1956 till 1993 when Joanna and I sadly separated. The property today consists of the very nice farm house built around 1880, a modern bungalow which is currently occupied by the widow of a former employee, the old mill building, complete with water wheel, but no water, and approximately 36 acres of good land.

If you would be interested I would be happy to send you a copy of a book I commissioned on the history of the family business in the timber industry.

I hope all of the foregoing may be of interest. My email address is a.j.brownlie@bsw.co.uk and my postal address is The Corners, Gattonside Melrose TD6 9NB.

Phone: 01896 822596.

With kind regards, Sandy Brownlie.
